

IMPROVING—President Nixon, who was hospitalized with viral pneumonia at Bethesda Naval Hospital, Washington, is considerably improved according to his doctors.

President Nixon Said Improving

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, in his fourth day at Bethesda Naval Medical Center for treatment of viral pneumonia, is showing "considerable improvement," his doctors reported today.

They said the chief executive's chest congestion had lessened and he had a minimum of pain.

The President slept soundly Sunday night, the doctors reported in their early morning medical bulletin.

Nixon has been making slow but steady progress since he was hospitalized Thursday night.

His four-day chest therapy treatments have produced the improvement in the lung congestion and chest discomfort, doctors said.

However, they said the treatments result in fatigue "to the point that he has been given mild analgesics for relief."

Nixon was reported to have had "a good day on Sunday," during which he had a minimum of business to conduct and enjoyed a visit from his family.

Sunday dinner for the hospitalized President featured seafood.

The four presidential doctors reported Sunday that Nixon was showing "good improvement," with less chest pain then and lower fever.

"The prognosis is excellent," said White House physician Dr. Walter R. Tkach, although he reiterated that the President "is still a sick man."

Nixon was spending his fourth day in suburban Maryland Bethesda Naval Medical Center today. Tkach announced the President would remain hospitalized at least until Friday, or a minimum of eight days.

After a 50-minute Sunday afternoon family visit, Mrs. Nixon described the President only as "better."

Mrs. Nixon and daughter and son-in-law, Julie and David Eisenhower, have been daily visitors since Friday. They were joined Sunday by the President's older daughter, Tricia Cox, who flew from her New York City home for her first hospital visit.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Sunday was not a business day for the President, but that Nixon reviewed the daily intelligence and news briefings and had a 20-minute afternoon meeting with his chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr.

After that, Nixon spent 35 minutes with his executive assistant Rose Mary Woods, going over correspondence and messages from friends and well-wishers, including heads of state from around the world.

The four doctors on the case sent out word Sunday that their "chief concern is that the President will push himself too hard and too fast and perhaps slow down his recovery and possibly cause a relapse."

Probers Hear Kalmbach

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herbert W. Kalmbach, President Nixon's former personal lawyer, acknowledged today he raised funds to pay the original seven Watergate defendants but denied any prior knowledge of the Watergate break-in or its later cover-up.

Kalmbach's prepared testimony was made public while White House aide Richard A. Moore faced continued questioning at the Senate's televised Watergate investigation. Kalmbach was to follow him to the witness stand.

"My actions in the period immediately following the break-in which involved the raising of funds to provide for the legal defense of the Watergate defendants and for the support of their families were prompted in the belief that it was proper and necessary to discharge what I assumed to be a moral obligation that had arisen in some manner unknown to me by reason of earlier events," Kalmbach said.

"The fact that I had been directed to undertake these actions by the No. 2 and No. 3 men on the White House staff made it absolutely incomprehensible to me that my actions in this regard could have been regarded in any way as improper or unethical," he said.

He said he was told to raise the money to pay off the Watergate defendants by White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman and the President's chief domestic adviser, John D. Ehrlichman.

Kalmbach was a trustee from January of 1969 to early February 1972 of an estimated $1.6 million in surplus funds from Nixon's 1968 campaign.

Quoting Richard M. Nixon on the function of congressional investigations, the chairman of the Watergate committee defended its inquiry as "crucial to the welfare of the nation."

Ervin said he knew of no better statement on congressional investigations than that in President Nixon's 1962 book "Six Crises."

In it, Nixon dealt with his own role as a congressman in investigating the Alger Hiss case.

Nixon wrote that the 1948 investigation of alleged Communist activities in government was essential to the national interest and to the future effectiveness of all congressional investigations.

Moore's testimony has been to the effect that Nixon knew nothing about the Watergate break-in and cover-up until told about it on March 21 by former White House counsel John W. Dean III.

In his book Nixon wrote of the functions of congressional investigating committees as outlined by Woodrow Wilson: to determine what laws should be enacted, serve as a watchdog on the executive branch, and inform the nation on great issues.

Ervin quoted that, too. Then the Watergate committee chairman turned to his own investigation.

"I would like to add that I consider the investigation being conducted by this committee most crucial to the welfare of the nation," Ervin said.

"This committee...is investigating allegations that men exercising great financial power, great political power and great governmental power have impaired if not destroyed the integrity of the process by which presidents of the United States are nominated and elected.

"I don't know anything in which the country could have a greater interest..." Ervin said.

The questioning of Kalmbach reportedly would range from the tactics of raising campaign money to his denials that political funds were used in the financing of Nixon's California estate at San Clemente.

Kalmbach, who is credited with raising more than $16 million for the President's 1968 and 1972 campaigns, has been identified in sworn testimony as the man who took on the assignment of raising legal fees and living money for the original seven Watergate conspirators.

Dean testified the money was intended to insure the continued silence of the seven.

Published reports state Kalmbach also was the paymaster for White House political agents assigned to plug national security leaks and for the political dirty trick squad allegedly headed by Donald Segretti.

Meanwhile, the White House has said that Nixon will keep his promise to meet with Watergate committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., on the issue of releasing presidential papers, but only after Nixon is released from Bethesda Naval Hospital.

And, in television appearances Sunday two committee members — Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, and Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn. — discussed the papers and the possibility of meeting with Nixon.

On the eve of Kalmbach's appearance, Time magazine reported Senate Watergate investigators are evaluating seriously the possibility that GOP funds were used to purchase La Casa Pacifica, the President's San Clemente estate.

The White House previously has denied political funds were used for that purpose and Time quoted Kalmbach as saying, "Not a dime of campaign money went into San Clemente."

Time said investigators are interested in the $1.6-million surplus from Nixon's 1968 campaign, for which Kalmbach was the custodian, and in the money he raised in 1970 for the so-called Public Institute.

The Public Institute reportedly was used as a holding fund from which money was channeled secretly to a large number of Republican congressional candidates in the 1970 elections.

President Nixon, now recuperating from viral pneumonia, has cited the doctrine of the separation of powers in his refusal to turn over to the committee presidential papers concerning the Watergate affair.

Time said these papers include some that comprise the records of the Public Institute. It said the papers were kept in a brown leather satchel that is now in the White House safe used by Dean before the President fired him.

In another development, Newsweek magazine said former White House aide Gordon Strachan was prepared to testify that H. R. Haldeman, then the President's chief of staff, ordered him (Strachan) to shred allegedly incriminating documents taken from Haldeman's office safe after the Watergate break-in.

Strachan served as the liaison between the White House, Haldeman and the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

The magazine said he was prepared to testify to a series of events indicating Haldeman knew in advance about the bugging of Democratic National Committee headquarters and other political surveillance.

Man Found Dead In Parked Car

Charles Hill, 28, former Circleville resident, was found dead in his car at 531½ E. Union St. Monday morning.

He was pronounced dead on the scene by Pickaway County Coroner Ray Carroll. The cause of death has not been determined as yet, according to the coroner.

City police report they received a call from Lucy Williams, 531½ E. Union St., 8:50 a.m. that a man was in a car in the driveway.

Police found the ignition key on in the car, the battery dead and the gas tank empty. They are presently checking the auto for a possible defective exhaust system.

He was the son of Charles and Nellie Hill, Columbus, former Circleville residents. Funeral arrangements are being completed by the Mader Funeral Home.

months of political bickering concerning Ohio's first lottery.

Disagreement over the proposal began immediately after the May 7 primary. Primary voters took out of the constitution an age-old ban against lotteries and cleared way for the legislature to establish one.

Republicans refused to go along with an emergency clause on an initial bill to set up a lottery commission. They wanted the proceeds earmarked for property tax relief.

That bill died after Democrats rejected the Republican demand.

Two new bills followed, one from each chamber. Each called for creation of a commission to go ahead and put a lottery into operation along the lines of those in other states.

Each chamber subsequently passed its bill and sent it to the other's rules committee, creating a standoff that threatened to put the issue to rest for this year.

Sen. Ronald M. Mottl, D-24 Parma, sponsor of the ballot proposal and the Senate bill, finally yielded to the House and agreed to let its measure become the vehicle.

Mottl said he intends to try to amend the House bill to add an emergency clause Republicans rejected and take out a House provision that would exempt lottery winnings from taxation.

He estimated the state will lose about $20 million that Ohioans will spend on lotteries in the neighboring Michigan and Pennsylvania if the lottery is not put into operation this year.

Expect Farm Land Value To Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The value of farm land, already at its highest level in 22 years, may continue to rise the rest of 1973 despite efforts to curb inflation, according to Agriculture Department real estate experts.

Farm real estate values jumped 13 per cent between March 1, 1972, and March 1 this year. That compared with an eight per cent increase in 1971-72 and was the most since a 15 per cent rise in 1951.

Over the past 10 years, farm land prices have risen about 6.9 per cent nationally, but those years included some much slower gains—and even one-year declines—in some states.

Robert D. Reinsel of the department's farm production economics division says that the rise in the value rise of farm real estate in 1973-74 may slow because of tighter monetary policies and higher interest rates.

"This could lead to a reduction in demand for real estate and slow the rise in land values," Reinsel said in a preliminary report on the situation.

"On the other hand, if current farm income expectations are realized in 1973 and livestock and crop price expectations remain strong in 1974, land price increases could match this year's increase," he said.

A full report on 1972-73 farm real estate developments will be issued later this month. Meantime, the preliminary report, actually a supplement to one issued a year ago, included these observations:

—Among the states, land values increased most rapidly last year in Wisconsin, up 21 per cent.

—Only California, Utah, Arizona and Louisiana showed increases of less than 10 per cent, with California showing the smallest gain at two per cent.

—Factors contributing to the big jump in real estate values included more money and larger credit availability and stable interest rates during the past year.

Also, the report said, there has been a steady increase in the demand for rural homes and private recreation areas.

Reds Free 2 Canadians

SAIGON (AP) — Two Canadian officers released by the Viet Cong after 17 days in captivity said today that they were marched through a jungle bound hand and neck.

They said that at times they were interrogated without sleep in efforts to force from them a confession of spying.

Capt. Ian Patten of Toronto and Capt. Fletcher Thomson of Ottawa told a news conference they successfully resisted. The two members of the International Commission of Control and Supervision were released Sunday in the Xuan Loc area 45 miles east of Saigon, where they fell into Viet Cong hands June 28.

"On the whole we were treated humanely, with respect," said Patten. "But there were certain personalities...that did at times make life uncomfortable."

"We were bound on a number of occasions, particularly on the march. And on the occasions we did without a great deal of sleep—in other words we had no sleep. After an eight-hour march on one occasion we spent over five hours going through what I will call a conversation."

"I was rifle-butted on a couple of occasions. I was pushed around a little bit. That's basically the thing. Mentally, I was hurt more with the treatment that was given to the Vietnamese people that were with us. I don't mean physical treatment; I just mean the whole harassment they were getting. That bothered me more than anything."

The two Vietnamese, an interpreter and a driver, were released with Patten and Thomson. All four were with the ICCS at Xuan Loc.

Executive Privilege Issue Heated

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has backed away before from hard-line stands on executive privilege, but never has the issue focused so close to the Oval Office as in the current dispute with the Senate Watergate committee.

In his July 6 letter to Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., the President left little room for compromise.

And Ervin, the man the President has agreed to meet on the issue, has described executive privilege as "a skeleton that has been rattling around in America's closet for so long nobody is sure who put it there or what it means."

When former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was on the witness stand last week, Ervin said that since the Constitution did not require a president to run for re-election "I don't think that executive privilege covers any political activities whatsoever ...

"I also take the position that executive privilege does not entitle a president to have kept secret information concerning criminal activities of his aides or anybody else ..."

Like a skilled negotiator, the President, in earlier disputes over executive privilege, has started with a hard stand and then yielded just enough to ease the pressure from Congress.

He did this last April 17, when he retreated from a stand against allowing present or former White House aides to testify before the Watergate committee.

In a television interview Friday,

Ervin said he thinks the dispute could be resolved by having "some representative of the White House and some representative of the committee to go through the documents and separate the documents that the committee is entitled to receive and use."

But in his July 6 letter, the President referred to a solution of this type and rejected it, saying "...such a course, I have concluded, would inevitably result in the attrition and eventual destruction of the indispensable principle of confidentiality of presidential papers."

On March 2, the President was asked at a news conference about a request from the Senate Judiciary Committee for John W. Dean III, then presidential counsel, to testify at the hearings on the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III to be director of the FBI.

He objected. "No President could ever agree to allow the counsel to the president to go down and testify before a committee."

On March 12, Nixon issued guidelines on executive privilege.

In them he noted that congressional requests for testimony from members of the White House staff "have been relatively infrequent through the years, and in past administrations they have been routinely declined. I have followed that same tradition in my administration, and I intend to continue it during the remainder of my term."

The guidelines specifically directed members and former members of the President's staff to "decline a request for a formal appearance before a committee of Congress."

Israel To Keep Some Territory, Eban Reports

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Foreign Minister Abba Eban says Israel intends to keep some of the Arab territory captured in the 1967 war despite any pressure from U.N. Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim.

Eban's comments at a meeting of the ruling Labor party Sunday was the first official reaction to Waldheim's projected visit to Egypt, Jordan and Israel sometime in the next few months.

Eban said Israel has decided not to return to its prewar borders. But the Israeli occupation is temporary, and much territory can be returned, leaving plenty of room for negotiation, he said.

The foreign minister said Waldheim would be welcome in Israel. But he indicated that Israel has no intention of changing its position that only direct negotiations with the Arabs — and not mediation by the United Nations — can achieve peace.

Chillicothe Notes 200th Birthday Of Worthington

CHILLICOTHE, Ohio (AP) — Chillicothe celebrated the 200th birthday of Ohio's sixth governor over the weekend, although the actual anniversary wasn't until today.

The Thomas Worthington Bicentennial of Birth and Dedication opened Saturday with craft displays and tours of Adena, former Gov. Worthington's estate outside Chillicothe.

A morning worship service was held at Adena Sunday morning, followed with a brief dedication by Gov. John Gilligan.

Worthington was born July 16, 1773. He was the first U.S. Senator from Ohio, founder of the Ohio State library and he became known as the "father of Ohio statehood."

Dear friends,

Few people realize that the average funeral requires 90 to 100 man hours of service from the time of call until the funeral is completed.

This fact, plus the many other items of expense and overhead, cause the funeral director considerable concern to keep funeral costs from inflating at the rapid rate of other goods and services.

UAW Opens Talks On New Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Contract negotiations between the United Auto Workers and the General Motors management start today, two months before their present agreement ends.

Billions of dollars are at stake. If General Motors, Ford and Chrysler cannot reach agreement with the union by the Sept. 14 contract expiration date, there could be an auto strike.

The last such strike closed General Motors for 67 days in 1970 and cost billions. It touched the lives of nearly one in six American workers, put hundreds of thousands out of work and had ramifications around the world.

Kennedy Favorite For 1976

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The latest Gallup Poll shows Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts the overwhelming choice of Democrats for their party's 1976 presidential nomination.

Kennedy was the first choice of 40 per cent of Democrats polled. His nearest competitor was Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, with 16 per cent.

The poll also shows Kennedy defeating two possible Republican candidates. The Massachusetts senator was given 51 per cent of the vote to 38 per cent over Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and 50 per cent to 36 per cent over former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally.

The poll on the Democratic nomination showed Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine with nine per cent, while the party's 1968 choice, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, and the 1972 nominee, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, each received eight per cent.

Kennedy made strong showings in polls prior to the 1968 and 1972 campaigns.

The recent poll was based on a survey of 1,566 adults, but only the 659 who identified themselves as Democrats were used for the nomination query.

The dates when the survey was conducted were not available.

Mine Safety Tests Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Bureau of Mines has selected sites near Prestonsburg, Ky., and Springfield, Ill., for an $18 million research program involving safety testing of new coal mining equipment.

The bureau said Island Creek Coal Co. will develop and operate the new experimental Kentucky mine while Peabody Coal Co., the nation's largest coal producer, will operate the existing Illinois mine.

At Springfield, the bureau said, tests will concentrate on a modified continuous mining machine manufactured by the FMC Corp.

The Prestonsburg installation will deal with conventional mining equipment including drills, coal cutters, loading machines and shuttle cars.

The Kentucky testing is scheduled to begin in September with the Illinois mine experimentation to start next spring. Both sites will be operated for one year, the bureau said.

But both the companies and the unions say they expect to avoid any repetition of what became the costliest strike in history.

The talks move to Ford Tuesday and Chrysler Wednesday. Whatever changes are finally agreed upon they are likely to be reflected in higher car and truck prices.

An economic demand to regain for UAW members unlimited protection against hikes in the cost of living triggered the 1970 strike. No such economic factor seems likely to arise this time.

With wages at the major automakers averaging $5.12 for each hour of straight time, union leaders have been stressing fringe benefits prior to negotiations.

As usual, the union isn't saying how much of a wage increase it wants. UAW President Leonard Woodcock will say only it will be "enough."

Union leaders predict they will obtain three major gains in this year's contract talks:

- Making overtime voluntary.
- Dental insurance.
- Retirement on full pension for any worker with 30 years on the job.

The companies insist they cannot operate if each worker is allowed to decide for himself whether he will work overtime. They also express fears that a small group of key workers could refuse overtime and shut down an entire plant because of grievance on some other issue.

Malcolm L. Denise, Ford's top labor negotiator, has warned the UAW it is on "a collision course" with the automakers over this issue.

Property Damaged In Car Accident

Billy Ray Boyle, 18, Derby driving on Circleville London Northern Road, Sunday lost control of his car and came to a halt in the front yard of a house.

Investigating officer Lowell Ferguson said Boyle was headed south on Circleville London Northern Road when he apparently accelerated too quickly. He lost control and went into a skid. The car came to a rest in the yard of Hazel R. Bruce after damaging one shrubby tree and leaving three ruts in the grass. Also reported damaged were Boyle's car door and side paneling.

Boyle left the scene of the accident and was later found by officer Ferguson. The driver was cited for reckless operation.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Kids Won't Be Fooled

DEAR ABBY: We have two grandchildren whose other grandparents have taught them that grandparents always bring presents!

When we go to visit them, they run to greet us with open hands, asking: "What did you bring us?"

And when they come to our home, they keep waiting for us to bring out some special gifts for them because their other grandparents always have something for them. When they came here last Sunday, before they were inside the door they asked: "What do you have for us?"

I replied: "What did you bring for us?" That stopped them cold!

Abby, we don't want to buy their love, but now that they have been spoiled by their other grandparents we don't want to suffer by comparison. I spoke to the other grandmother about this, and she said: "Giving presents is a grandparent's pleasure."

So what's the answer?

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Children are smarter than you think they are. Spending time with them, and showing honest affection and genuine interest will net you more love in return than a carload of presents could. Continue to follow your own philosophy, and let the other grandparents follow theirs.

DEAR ABBY: "Grandma's letter struck a familiar chord with me. It isn't thanks we want from our grandchildren when we buy them gifts, it's an expression of love. To be totally ignored is to be deeply hurt."

We give them presents because we love them.

When one grows old, every phone call and note is doubly appreciated.

Our children try to make excuses for their children. They say: "The grandchildren are too busy to write or call."

We notice, however, they are never too busy to cash our check as soon as it arrives.

GRANDMA IN THE SAME BOAT

DEAR GRANDMA: Judging from my mail, that's a large boat you're in.

DEAR ABBY: How would you answer a 4-year-old, born out of wedlock, when she asks, "Why don't I have a daddy?"

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Tell her everyone has a daddy, but not all daddies live with their families, and

Fuel Pinch Turns City To Bicycles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — City motor pools in smaller Ohio communities are existing "pump to tank" during the current nationwide fuel shortage.

If they were lucky to get fuel bids at all — and some weren't—most communities are paying 5 to 6 cents per gallon higher for fuel this year than last.

At least one town has added bicycles to its motor pool, and is delighted at the savings in fuel, not to mention parking spaces, pollution and trimmer waistlines on city employees.

Reynoldsburg, east of Columbus, has received no bids this year on a contract to supply the city with 28,000 gallons of gasoline.

Service Director Frank Baldy said the city, which has been paying 27 cents a gallon for regular and 30 cents a gallon for premium gasoline, will have to shop the local service stations. The city's last contract expired May 1.

Whitehall, Ohio, has received no "firm bid" for its 9,600 gallon contract, but continues to be served on a month-to-month basis by Union 76.

Full Steel Production Under Way

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Hard figures on U.S. steel production capacity are emerging now that the steel industry has its first opportunity in recent years to run at full speed for a prolonged period, Industry Week magazine reported today.

Until now, steel production capacity has been mostly based on estimates, the magazine for industrial executives reported.

"It now appears that the record 150 million to 151 million net tons of raw steel that will be produced this year... is about the most the industry can make," IW said. "A figure of 155 million tons has been regarded as the industry's ultimate capacity..."

IW said shipping capacity of U.S. mills "appears to be 105 to 108 million net tons," depending on percentages of yield of finished products that can be obtained from raw steel.

"In periods of extremely high demand, the percentage of yield has risen because customers accepted material that would have to be scrapped by the mills in times of low demand."

IW said the forecast for 150 to 151 million net tons of raw steel is based on predictions that production in the second half will average 2.9 million tons a week—the same as the first half average.

"However, there's considerable belief that the plants can't sustain such a pace because equipment, run hard in the first half, will have to be slowed or stopped for maintenance. In fact, output has been below 2.9 million tons in each of the last four weeks, largely because of breakdowns, maintenance downtime, vacations and hot weather."

Price is not the problem, said Public Services Director Floyd Cecil. "They (the oil company) just don't want to commit themselves for a year during this gas shortage."

Use Of Energy Up Alarminglly

WASHINGTON (AP) — Few people realize the enormous environmental impact of the nation's accelerating use of energy, the chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality told Congress this week.

Russell Train warned that to change the trend from an energy splurge to energy conservation would require vast alterations in the lifestyle of most Americans.

Train's analysis of the use of energy and the related environmental punishment was given to a joint hearing on energy conservation held by two House committees. During the week, a half-dozen congressional committees were probing some aspect of the energy crisis.

He noted that the use of energy has shot up alarmingly—30-fold since 1850 and, in the last two decades, at a rate twice that of the population growth.

As it is, Whitehall is paying "5 to 6 cents above" the 22 cents per regular gallon of gasoline it paid last year, he said.

Delaware finally negotiated a year-

"Although many people are aware of environmental damages from particular energy activities," Train said, "few realize the degree to which total energy systems affect the environment."

"Converting fossil and nuclear fuels into energy leads to air pollution, water pollution, creation of solid wastes, land disruption and aesthetic degradation," Train said.

The environment is damaged by car air pollution, thermal discharges to lakes and streams and the destruction of millions of acres of land by mining.

"Energy systems were the largest source of the 264 million tons of pollutants emitted into the air in 1970," Train said.

Cars and other forms of transportation caused over half. Next biggest polluters were powerplants and residential and commercial heating units.

Hot Air Balloon Championship Brings Color To Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)—They had come from all over—127 of them floating ponderously in the stark New Mexico sky, presenting a kaleidoscope of brilliant colors.

An onlooker excitedly declared to his neighbor, "this is the greatest thing that ever happened to Albuquerque! It's just unbelievable."

It was like that for six days as giant multi-colored balloons dotted the skies over New Mexico's largest city. The First World Hot Air Balloon Championship activities had arrived and most New Mexicans were ecstatic.

Hot-air balloons are most numerous in the U.S., but even here they are rare; perhaps 35 per cent of all those flying were in Albuquerque for the event. Thirty foreign balloons came from as far away as India and Finland.

Donn Miller, a 25-year-old Atwood, Kan., farmer who took part in the event with his own balloon called "Aurora Borealis", said "you've gotta have a lot of endurance to be a balloon pilot...They have parties for you to 3, 4 o'clock in the morning and you've gotta be up at 6. I believe endurance is the key word."

A hot-air balloon is simple to operate, yet is the most inefficient flying machine in operation, another Kansan, Robert M. Park, of Harper, Kan., observed.

"You got one handle. You pull it and the fire goes up; let loose and the fire goes down. Anything past that, you're lucky," he said smiling.

Another balloonist said that there is a tradition among balloonists to carry along a bottle of wine to share with the first person to reach his balloon after it comes down.

In Albuquerque those six days there was a lot of wine passed around.

long contract with Standard Oil Co., after two monthlong extensions of its contract, which expired March 31.

The central Ohio city is paying 25.4 cents per gallon for regular gasoline, compared with the 21.4 cents it paid last year.

A city spokeswoman said Delaware received three bids a year on the average, before the fuel shortage.

And in this year's contract, "prices are subject to increase" she said.

In the name of fuel and figure conservation, Delaware has added three bicycles to its motor pool.

The bicycles, unclaimed, abandoned and until now unused in the city police department, will be ridden by city personnel to make short trips downtown and to nearby areas, said Dan During, assistant city manager.

Other benefits During listed: "Helping solve the downtown parking problem: saving the city some gasoline; providing fast transportation for short, downtown trips; helping eliminate pollution — and besides, it's free, and who's going to argue with that?"

A Page Of Opinion

Food Supply Confusion

“Worth its weight in soybeans,” is not yet a popular axiom, but it could become one if the once lowly commodity continues to gain stature—and price. Soybean futures blossomed on commodity exchanges from an average of $12 a bushel in recent weeks. Over the years soybeans grew in popularity as a staple of the American diet, used in products ranging from salad oils and margarine to livestock feed. What happens to soybean prices, then, directly affects the household budget. Presidential action to attempt to contain domestic soybean supplies and prices through a temporary export ban has even wider implications for foreign buyers of American soybeans. The Japanese, in particular, are unhappy over the ban, however temporary it may be, because soybeans long have been a primary ingredient in the Japanese diet and Japan imports 90 per cent of its soybeans from the U. S.

Beyond the American soybean confusion is the larger picture of imbalances in a number of food items. This is due partly to price-cost conflicts, and partly to earlier commitments of large grain shipments for export. Too many major influences have been brought to bear almost simultaneously on the food scene. The shortages which have appeared and threaten to become more severe are due to unusual circumstances which may require unusual remedies.

Still An Airship

Is it possible that the dirigible may, at this date, stage a revival? It has been 40 years since the last dirigible was designed, 36 years since the Hindenburg turned into a blazing inferno while attempting to land at Lakehurst, N. J. That picture is still etched in the minds of many people and recalled at the mere mention of airships. But, although airships have sunk to the lowest depths of acceptance since their brief surge of popularity decades ago, there are still those who say they have a place in the modern world. One of those partisans is J. Gordon Vaeth, a civilian employee of the government who once was an airship officer in the Navy. “We’ve had great breakthroughs in aircraft technology since then,” Vaeth said in a recent interview. None of them has ever been applied to airships. Vaeth is right. Modern technology could build a better airship—but it would still be an airship. Even if the propeller was replaced with a modified jet engine and non-combustible materials and gases were used throughout, it would still be an airship.

Year Of Europe?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The ominous word worrying Western Europe these days is “decoupling” — meaning a separation of the American strategic nuclear deterrent vis-a-vis Russia and the NATO blueprint for West European defense. “Decoupling” would follow as a matter of logic if Leonid Brezhnev should succeed in getting Richard Nixon to promise that the U.S. would not be the first to use tactical nuclear weapons in a war that began in conventional fashion. Without NATO’s arsenal of tactical nuclear weapons, the West European countries could hardly hope keep the Soviet Union and the Warsaw Pact satellites from overrunning West Germany. And once West Germany fell, would we dare to reverse the decision. The details bearing on this are spelled out in Wynfred Joshua’s recent study on “Nuclear Weapons and the Atlantic Alliance,” put out by the National Strategy Information Center in New York City. While Brezhnev has been pushing for “detente” and getting a favorable response from Nixon, the number of Soviet divisions stationed in Eastern Europe has grown from 26 to 31. The Warsaw Pact countries have a three-to-one advantage over NATO in tanks. The Soviet Baltic fleet would flank the NATO countries from the North. And since 1968 all the Warsaw Pact satellites have vastly improved their network of military airfields, defending them with “many thousands of pieces of military electronic equipment” that, to continue with Dr. Joshua’s description, make the East

European forward area “the most sophisticated and densest electronic environment in the world.” Since NATO, even with the American forces now quartered in Europe, could not match the Warsaw Soviet forces either on the ground or in the air if a war were limited to conventional means, any agreement to keep tactical nuclear weapons out of it would be suicidal. True enough, the threat of intercontinental ballistic missile retaliation from the U.S. should be sufficient to keep the conventional war from happening. But, now that the Soviets have achieved rough parity with the U.S. in missile deployment, the West Europeans are wondering if Washington would be willing to risk the sacrifice of U.S. cities in order to save Europe. It is the question of credibility that has given rise to all the “decoupling” fears. Where does Henry Kissinger line up in thinking about NATO strategy? When he was writing about our “uneasy” alliances during the Kennedy and early Johnson Administrations, he, too, feared the possibility of “decoupling.” Kissinger was an early advocate of making tactical nuclear weapons an integral part of NATO planning. But, in the atmosphere of detente, nobody likes to bring up the subject of atomic reprisals even of a tactical, or localized, nature. It is really odd that Senator Henry Jackson, a Democrat, feels called upon in 1973 to echo the Kissinger complaints as of 1963. What has Kissinger been doing in the meantime? Jackson wants to see the NATO nations, led by the U.S., develop a coherent strategy of defense. Without a coherent strategy, the U.S. must lack any firm bargaining position at SALT II meetings. Can’t Kissinger sell this view to Nixon without Henry Jackson’s help? What, indeed, has happened to the “year of Europe” that Nixon and Kissinger were talking about before the Watergate debacle intervened? Kissinger was never an opponent of French and British efforts to establish atomic deterrents on their own. He must have his ideas about “coupling” French and British deterrents with our program, if only to bring the Soviets to a sane view about cutting back their deployment of conventional forces in the Eastern European satellites. There would have to be a significantly greater reduction of Warsaw Pact conventional means, such as tanks and mechanized infantry, to justify the West in giving Brezhnev a promise not to use the tactical atomic weapons that could be a prelude to a hemispheric nuclear blast-off. The tragedy of Watergate is that it destroys European confidence that any attempt to work out a coherent strategy of defense with the U.S. is worth the making. The longer the U.S. Senate regards Watergate as its main business, the less chance that Kissinger and Nixon will be able to make 1973 the “year of Europe.” We are mutilating ourselves while Brezhnev laughs in the wings.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Near the town where we live is a large shopping center. A new gimmick appeared the other day and I fell for it. There was a woman wearing a nurse’s uniform. I don’t know whether she was a real nurse. For one dollar she was taking the blood pressure and giving out the numbers to everyone. Should this be allowed?
Mrs. F.B., N.J.

pressure in the blood vessels in between the beats of the heart. Both numbers are important. In some instances, the diastolic pressure may be more significant than the systolic pressure. This can be evaluated only by your own physician. It is well known that some people will have a sudden rise in blood pressure when the reading is taken by a strange person. This can well occur when it is done by “super-market specialists.” Anxiety is compounded when the numbers told to you are different from that which you have heard from your doctor. This conflicting information serves only one purpose, and that is to detach from you a hard-earned dollar bill. More and more attention is being devoted to uncovering the presence of high blood pressure in people who give no evidence by sign or symptom of this disease. Thousands of cases of high blood pressure that might easily be controlled, with the remarkable drugs now available, are still going unnoticed. Coronary heart disease and strokes are the target of scientific studies and health education programs. Anyone who has the slightest inkling that his blood pressure might be elevated should pursue this with his doctor, and become the real beneficiary of solid medical judgment. Supermarket blood pressure testing should be legally eliminated.

Dear Mrs. B.:
I did not know that this new form of exploitation had already reached America. It has been flourishing for years in European countries. The temptation to have one’s blood pressure read is great, especially for those people who falsely believe that their doctor “never tells the truth” about the blood pressure numbers. Doctors accumulate specific information from blood pressure numbers, but their interpretation depends on how they fit into his findings during a general physical examination.

The numbers are certainly meaningful in establishing the presence of high blood pressure. As you know, there are two number readings. The first refers to the systolic blood pressure. This is the pressure in the blood vessels at the moment that the heart is pumping blood into the arteries. The second, or the lower number, is the diastolic pressure. This shows the HEADED FOR CAMP — Twenty-five children from Pickaway County left this morning for Camp Swoneky, the Salvation Army camp near Cincinnati. They will be at the camp until July 21. Sponsored by the Salvation Army, children attending the camp were selected by Pickaway Children's Service office.

10-Foot-Long Slot Machine To Have $1 Million Jackpot

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Would a gambler pump $10 into a onearmed bandit with a chance to win a $1 million jackpot? At odds of roughly 25 billion to one?

Nevada slot machine king Si Redd thinks so and is betting $150,000 on it. Redd, president of the Bally Distributing Co. here, is readying the world's largest slot machine with the biggest payoff ever.

Dubbed "Super Bertha," it will pay $1 million to the lucky $10 bettor who cranks up the right combination of symbols on its eight 20-character reels. And if you don't feel like playing 10 Eisenhower dollars at once, the machine will pay lesser amounts of $100,000 or even $500,000 for the right combinations on smaller bets.

The payoffs will dwindle to a few dollars, depending on how much is bet and the symbols that show up on the reels.

Standing six feet tall and 10 feet long, the slot machine uses a five horsepower electric motor to power the 20-inch-wide, chain-driven reels.

Redd says he will have invested nearly $150,000 in designing and engineering the machine before it is put into play later this year. Several casinos are interested in housing "Super Bertha," and Redd expects to get his investment back in a year and a half.

Redd went to work on "Super Bertha" after watching the success of his 70 "Big Bertha" slot machines, six-foot-tall multireelers that require a dollar or more a pull.

Under the law of probability, the one particular winning combination will come up on "Super Bertha" once in 25 billion plays, Redd says. "But who's to know? On our first $5,000 machine, somebody hit it the first night."

MRS. GEORGIA SWEET, 896-2462

On July 1, guests of Miss Grace Minshall were her nephew and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ward Dailey, Mrs. Crissie Clutter and niece Audrey, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Massie and children Michael, 10, Pamela, 7, and Carol, 4.

The occasion celebrated the 13th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Massie on July 1, and the 32nd birthday of Mrs. Massie on July 2.

Recently on the evening news Mr. Dailey received a plaque with his name on it honoring his 21 years of service as umpire for the city's ball games.

Mr. Dailey is retiring because of illness. Many from here will remember that the Dailey family lived here in the thirties, and quite well-liked.

Pollution Suit Filed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A hearing will be held July 19 in Ashtabula County Common Pleas Court on a suit filed by the state Friday accusing the Environment Control Corp. of Painesville with polluting a tributary of Lake Erie.

Life Behind Bars Bared For Panel

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of a committee investigating conditions at Ohio prisons learned few facts about race and sex discrimination Friday. But they heard a sobering story about day to day life behind bars.

The Ohio Advisory Committee, an arm of the U.S. Civil Rights Commission, was appalled at inmate Paul Williams story of unsanitary conditions in the cafeteria at the Mansfield Reformatory.

Flies swarm over food as it travels from the kitchen to the men, and insects and even rat tails have been found in the food, Williams claimed.

Kenneth Maynard and Louis Mosley, inmates at the London Correctional Institution, said job training there was practically "non-existent" for lack of coordination between the prison and outside agencies and because the men work with obsolete or broken equipment.

Maynard said auto repair students at the prison work with 1955 and 1956 engines.

Maynard and Mosley were the only two of nine prisoners to appear before the committee in blue jeans and blue work shirts. The two also were handcuffed prior to their actual appearance.

The other seven inmates, from three other prisons, were dressed in "civilian" clothes.

Maynard said a third inmate from London, who also was scheduled to testify, may have been discouraged by prison officials from appearing. The committee did not pursue it.

The Ohio Reformatory for Women at Marysville got the best marks as a rehabilitative institution from those testifying Friday.

Inmate Nancy Webb described basic education, college English and home economics programs and a business course including instruction in data processing with the cooperation of a local computer firm.

Fooling Photographers With Disguises, Expert Says

LONDON (AP) — Billionaire recluse Howard Hughes reportedly has learned the art of disguise and has walked out of his hotel several times recently without being recognized by waiting photographers.

Leonard Poultny, an expert in hair transplants and master of disguises, told the London Daily Express in an interview published today that he had instructed Hughes on how to disguise himself so "he can look like several different people."

The 66-year-old Poultny refused to give details of Hughes' actual appearance, pending publication of his book this fall. Hughes, 68, has not been seen publicly since 1957.

The disguise expert said an aide to Hughes asked him six weeks ago to come to the penthouse suite at the Inn on the Park in which Hughes reportedly has been living since coming to London from earthquake-shattered Managua, Nicaragua, last December. An aide told Poultny to wear a disguise during all visits to avoid arousing suspicion, Poultny said.

"Nobody told me the man was Hughes, but who else could it have been?" Poultny said. "I've never come across such security."

He said he fitted the man believed to be Hughes with a hairpiece, cheek padding, false eyebrows and plastic moulds inserted in the nose to alter his outline.

Hughes was thought to have left his hotel only once since his arrival here. That was last month to make a night flight to Belgium and back to renew his residence permit.

Photographers who have staked out the hotel waiting to get a picture of the American billionaire said they have never spotted anyone vaguely resembling Hughes.

Poultny is a pioneer of hair transplants in Britain and has been hired to disguise many British film stars and notables.

Disabled Old Man

Burned To Death

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Ralph Williams, 82, who is disabled, was burned to death when he was unable to put out a lighted match which dropped into the lounge chair he was sitting in at his home Sunday.

Williams was trying to light a pipe when the match dropped. A neighbor noticed the smoke, put out the fire and called an ambulance.

Highway Patrolmen Will Enforce Bicycle Laws

Local Highway Patrolmen are starting a new campaign against two-wheeled traffic.

In response to a drastic increase in bicycle accidents and fatalities, the Circleville post will be rigidly enforcing traffic laws within this vehicle group, Lt. Wayne E. Henry, post commander, announced.

"Bicycles and motorcycles are subject to the same as cars, trucks and other vehicles," Lt. Henry advised. "However, many cycle users exhibit outright disregard for these laws and therefore present a traffic hazard to other vehicles while endangering themselves.

He listed the following frequent actions of bicycle riders that are illegal and extremely dangerous:

1. Not stopping at stop signs, traffic lights, driveways and other areas that call for a full stop before proceeding.

2. Carrying more persons than the vehicle is designed to transport.

3. Traveling at dusk or at night with insufficient lighting.

4. Not signaling for turns.

5. Driving on the wrong side of the road, against the traffic.

"We encourage bicyclists to study Ohio traffic regulations if they are unfamiliar with them to obey these regulations and if they are unfamiliar with them, to obey these regulations and avoid involvement in a serious traffic accident," Lt. Henry said.

American Heart Association Publishes Hardback Cookbook

The American Heart Association has published its first hardback cookbook with low-fat, low cholesterol recipes.

The purpose of the AHA cookbook is to provide an enjoyable diet while avoiding harmful excess fats. The AHA aims to cut the percentage of fat in the average American diet from 45 to 35 percent of the total caloric intake.

Explaining that excess fats can cause problems by hastening the developemnt of artherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries) in some people, the AHA advises sensible eating habits as "preventive" medicine. Heart attacks and strokes may result from blockages in arteries that have been narrowed by artherosclerosis.

By adjusting your eating habits the low cholesterol way, you can help your heart. The AHA suggests that fish, veal and chicken should be substituted for some of those meat dishes. Eggs may be used, but since the egg yolk is so high is cholesterol, the AHA recommends that you eat no more than three egg yolks a week. Shellfish and organ meats are also high in cholesterol and should be avoided as much as possible.

The AHA cookbook offers tips on cooking, shopping, eating out and "converting" favorite recipes. One of the hints for cholesterol watchers is how to prepare mock sour cream. Blend one cup cottage cheese with two teaspoons skim milk, one teaspoon lemon juice and one-fourth teaspoon salt.

Included in the 500 recipes are regional and ethnic recipes, plain and fancy dishes and spicy, rich-tasting foods. All recipes meet AHA recommendations for a low-fat, low cholesterol diet. Cookbooks may be ordered from the Central Ohio Heart Chapter, 535 E. Broad Street, Columbus, Ohio.

General Telephone Talks Continue

MARION, Ohio (AP) — The Communications Workers of America struck the General Telephone Co. in Ohio this morning, but union officials said they expected contract negotiations to continue.

The contract for 2,800 workers in 70 Ohio counties expired July 6. Negotiations continued Sunday in hopes of averting a strike.

Picket lines went up outside General Telephone facilities at 6 a.m.

Company officials said they did not expect the strike to affect normal service, but said that customers wanting new phones might have to wait.

Skylab 2 Count Starts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The lengthy countdown is under way for the launching of the Skylab 2 astronauts next week for a rendezvous with America's first space station.

The launch team started the countdown clock at 11 p.m. EDT Sunday for the liftoff of the second three-man crew. The 85-ton laboratory which they will visit is orbiting 270 miles above the earth.

The first phase of the count will continue until Friday when there will be a launch rehearsal. That will be followed by a five-day hold, with the final countdown to start July 26.

Astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma are to ride a Saturn 1B rocket away from Cape Kennedy at 7:08 a.m. Saturday, July 28. They will link up with the laboratory for a record 56 days in space.

The three will continue experiments involving earth resources, astronomy and other subjects which were started by the Skylab 1 crew. The 28-day Skylab 1 mission ended June 22.

Akron Appeals To Tourists

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Auto Club Travel Department for The Herald.

Akron never "tires" of being referred to as the "Rubber Capital of the World." The northeast Ohio city has many appealing factors for tourists and is the suggested AAA tour this week.

Stan Hywet (which means stone hewn) Hall is considered one of the finest examples of English Tudor architecture in the United States. Built in 1911-1915 by Frank A. Seiberling, founder of Goodyear and Seiberling Rubber companies, this 65-room manor house has 33 rooms, open to visitors during the guided tour. Furnishings are antiques and art treasures dating from the 14th to 18th centuries.

A rose garden, sunken English walled garden and Japanese garden lines the beautiful grounds of Stan Hywet.

Other nearby attractions are the Perkins Mansion, built in 1831 by General Simon Perkins, founder of Akron, and the John Brown House in which abolitionist John Brown lived for two years.

Almost all the animals of the 10-acre Akron Children's Zoo can be handled and wander freely over the grounds.

Jonathon Hale Homestead, the oldest brick home in the area, contains a fine museum.

Blossom Music Center, located nearby, is the summer home for the Cleveland orchestra. The $6.6 million pavilion, acclaimed an architectural success because of perfect acoustics and unobstructed sightlines, seats 4,600 under cover and an additional 10,000 on the lawns.

Railways of America museum, off Ohio Route 8, contains a working model electric railroad with over 1,000 cars, some dating back to 1830.

Akron has a rich sports background, annually hosting the professional golfer's tour, the "World Series of Golf," the professional bowler's tournament — The Firestone Tournament of Champions. The Rubber Capital is home for both the professional men's and women's bowling associations.

AAA suggests this routing to the tour area: From Circleville, go north on U.S. 23 to I-270; use the west leg of the (outerbelt) I-270 to I-71; northeast on I-71 to I-76; east on I-76 to the tour area.

Atomic Test Protesters Inside Zone

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — The American protest schooner Fri took on much-needed supplies today from another yacht as the French were reported making final preparations for their nuclear tests in the South Pacific.

The yacht Arven arrived from the Cook Islands with four French protesters aboard and transferred food, fuel and equipment to the 86-foot schooner. The 10 men and three women — one of them six months pregnant — aboard the Fri had been living on baked beans and dried fruit for more than a week.

The transfer occurred about 135 miles off the Mururoa Atoll, the French testing ground. The Fri's skipper, David Moodie of Sausalito, Calif., said he would go back into the 72-mile danger zone around the atoll.

Reports from Papeete, Tahiti, the capital of French Polynesia, said French naval vessels and aircraft were converging on Mururoa, and only deteriorating weather or a shift in the winds could delay the first test explosion in the atmosphere for long.

The New Zealand frigate Otago, which was within the 72-mile danger zone, reported the weather clear and rolling seas.

Moodie, interviewed by radio, told David Barber of the New Zealand Press Association, that he would not seek assistance from the Otago unless she is sinking or life is endangered.

The New Zealand government has already said the Otago would go to the aid of the yacht only if it was in danger of sinking but would not intervene if the French tried to tow it out of the area.

Sing-In Planned At Hargus Lake

A Sing-in For Christ will be held from 3-5 p.m. Sunday at Airy Acres beside Hargus Lake. It is open to the public and people may picnic on the grounds or on the AW Marion State Park across the road.

The program is organized by the Rev. Robert Swanger of Christ the King Lutheran Church of Columbus, Dr. George Blackstone of Circleville Bible College, the Rev. Paul Meyers and Robert Hildreth of Airy Acres.

The Capitol City Boys, Jesus, You And Me and The New Horizons are some of the recording groups who will appear. Many churches will have groups there and everyone is encouraged to bring their own instrument if they desire and join in the music. Anyone wishing to camp for the weekend should contact Don Crow at 474-3371.

Cattle Industry Eyes Bigger Cows

DENVER (AP) — Bigger cattle could mean more meat for America's consumers and the world markets, but the cattle industry isn't sure larger steers would be economical.

In fact some agricultural researchers say the long term solution may lie in the other direction: slaughtering lighter and younger steers if the animals could provide high quality meat.

One larger packer says freezing beef cuts in retail-size packages would help save money by allowing inventories to be built up. But he acknowledges housewives would rebel against a lack of fresh meat at the supermarket.

Cattle feeders say something is going to have to be done. They say they are caught in a squeeze by the federal ban on the growth stimulant DES, soaring feed prices and a dwindling amount of open range lands to grass-feed the young steers.

The animals arriving at feedlots are smaller than ever and have to be kept on feed longer. The longer feed time, coupled with President Nixon's anti-inflation price controls, are shrinking profit margins and raising the threat of meat shortages, the cattle industry contends.

The push for the bigger cattle solution comes primarily from breeders, who have experimented with crossing some of the new "exotic" steers with their lighter English breed cousins. This produces a steer that matures at a heavier weight and can be slaughtered into a 800 to 900-pound carcass — about 200 pounds heavier than average.

Dr. L. S. Pope of Texas A&M University, who moderated the recent Great Western Beef Expo at Sterling, Colo., said objections that bigger cattle provide cuts that are too big for the retail market can be overcome by the butcher.

Kenneth W. Monfort, whose Greeley, Colo., feedlots turn out over 200,000 steers a year, says the industry recognizes the need to create more beef but is hampered by lack of heavy animals to put on feed.

"A year ago we bought two thirds of the weight and added one-third," said Monfort. "Today we're buying 58 per cent and adding 42."

One of the big advantages of heavier carcasses comes in processing, says Monfort. It costs just about the same to slaughter a big steer as it does a little one, he says.

'Rent-A-Narc' Agents Available

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Back around 1850, Allan Pinkerton invented the rent-a-cop. Two months ago, former Columbus Police Chief Dwight Joseph invented the rent-a-narc.

For $120 a day, a police department or private individual can lease one of Joseph's 13 long-haired former policemen and narcotics agents.

"The smaller police departments cannot afford to hire a person for undercover work and expect to retain him on the payroll as a police officer once he's been discovered," Joseph, 54, who was superintendent of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Identification and Investigation after he retired from the Columbus Police Force in 1972. He served on the Columbus force for 25 years.

His Columbus-based firm is called Multi-state UNIT, Inc. UNIT stands for Undercover Narcotics Intelligence Technicians.

"Narc," a street term for narcotics agent, is appropriate to describe Joseph's men because they actually live the drug culture lifestyle when at work.

Joseph says the organization so far has caused the arrest of 115 persons on a total of 186 charges, from Wooster, Ohio to Wheeling, W. Va.

"The state does not have enough people to adequately service the small communities," he said. "The federal organizations are too limited in scope to really service them."

"The state has cut down on its undercover agents, and I thought this was a good opportunity to get into a legitimate business that would also serve a great cause and purpose.

Not that I'm a philanthropist or anything like that—I'm in business," he added.

The federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration has encouraged small communities to contract for police services from larger communities. Cities and counties unable to afford full-time agents such as the ones UNIT can provide, Joseph said.

London Call Girl Faces Charges

LONDON (AP) — Norma Levy, the call girl who got Lord Lambton into trouble, was charged today with attempting to induce a woman to turn prostitute. She was released on $25,000 bail and ordered to appear again on July 31.

Mrs. Levy, 26, had her face covered with a multi-colored silk scarf when she arrived in a police car at Marylebone Magistrates Court in North London.

The hearing lasted less than a minute. The charge said her offense occurred some time in 1971. She entered no plea and did not speak.

Mrs. Levy put up half the bail and her mother put up the rest, the court was told.

OHIO WEATHER SUMMARY

A high pressure area continued to dominate weather conditions over Ohio today, bringing clear skies and pleasant temperatures to start the week.

Highs today were expected near 80, and lows tonight should be in the upper 50s to low 60s.

No precipitation was reported overnight.

Generally fair conditions and temperatures were expected to continue in the state at least through Tuesday.

The lowest temperature recorded anywhere in North America, 81 degrees below zero, occurred in Snag, in the Yukon.

Weiskopf British Open Golf Winner

TROON, Scotland (AP) — Tom Weiskopf, the world's newest golf hero, continues to be puzzled by the Troon links, even after winning the British Open Golf Championship over the tricky seaside course along Scotland's western shore.

Following his record-tying 12-under-par 276 Saturday, Weiskopf said quizzically: "I don't understand this course at all."

Prior to the tournament over the 7,064-yard, par-72 course, Weiskopf voiced his displeasure with the layout. But his attitude mellowed with a constant stream of birdies.

Despite his original hostility, Weiskopf managed to win convincingly, equalling the best score for the 113-year-old event, set on these same Troon links by Arnold Palmer the last time the tourney was played here in 1962.

Weiskopf, who never had won a major tourney before arriving here, had been red-hot this year, taking three events on the U.S. circuit in two months.

The prize money for the British Open winner was a modest $14,300. But victory in the prestige-laden event carries a host of endorsements and other fringe benefits which should lift Weiskopf, who a few years ago couldn't afford to play as an amateur, into the select million dollar class.

He began the final round with a one-stroke lead over Johnny Miller, 26-year-old winner of the U.S. Open.

Miller made a strong bid. So did Britain's Neil Coles and favored Jack Nicklaus.

Miller and Coles shared second place at 279, three shots back. Nicklaus was fourth at 280.

Action Features Slow Pitch Tilts

American Legion, Circleville Merchants No. 1, DuPont G shift and Spurlock Construction all came up with big wins Sunday in slow pitch action at Ted Lewis Park.

The Legion defeated DuPont E Shift by forfeit and edged Circleville Independents, 4-3. Bill McGowan hurled the win over the Independents with Mike Yates and Jerry Hatmaker providing the key hits.

Circleville Merchants No. 1 blasted PPG, 30-5. Duke Weffler was the winning pitcher. Harold Smith led the plate barrage with three home runs, including a grand slam, with Roger McConnell, Hal McConahey and Mick Tomlinson each cracking a four-bagger.

DuPont G Shift rallied to down the Kingston Merchants, 13-8. Pat Ankrom had a grand slam home run for the winners.

Glenn Hunter hurled Spurlock Construction to a 6-2 decision over Giovanni Pizza. John Sharp, Gary Robbins and Chuck Jackson led the attack for the winners.

Grimsley, Reds Top Mets, 3-1

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati's Ross Grimsley had everything under control Sunday. Everything but his curiosity.

Willie Mays cured that with one swing.

"I wanted to show him my changeup," smiled Grimsley, after firing a four-hit 3-1 victory over the New York Mets.

Mays wasn't the only one surprised to see the pitch.

"I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw him throw it," said Reds' Manager Sparky Anderson. "I told him never to throw Mays a change."

Mays slammed the pitch high into the Riverfront Stadium stands in the seventh inning for his fourth homer of the year and 658th of his career.

"He might be 42, but he still takes a swing. He still scares me," said Anderson.

Grimsley admitted it was a mistake. "I had been getting him out all day

Top Drivers Win Races On Weekend

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer

It was a good weekend in auto racing for Roger McCluskey, Peter Revson, A.J. Foyt...and Team McLaren.

Driving one of the Britishbuilt racers, Revson captured the British Grand Prix, becoming only the second American in two years to win one of the international Formula 1 events;

McCluskey drove an Americanized version of the McLaren to victory in a 200-mile Indianapolis-type championship race at Cambridge Junction, Mich., and Foyt wheeled a Chevrolet to first in a companion 200-miler, to the absolute joy of 47,700 sun-drenched spectators.

Not only that, Johnny Rutherford finished second to McCluskey in the Michigan race, also in a McLaren; and Revson's McLaren teammate in Formula 1, ex-Indianapolis driver Denis Hulme, finished third in the Grand Prix.

A 300-mile Grand National stock car race scheduled for the Trenton, N.J., 1½-mile fairgrounds track was rained out and reset for Aug. 5. Bobby Allison won the pole position for that race with a speed of 131.707 miles an hour in a Chevrolet.

Revson, a 34-year-old New Yorker who now lives in Redondo Beach, Calif., posted an average speed of 131.75 m.p.h. for the 196.11-mile Grand Prix race.

McCluskey, 42, posted an average speed of 161.146 m.p.h. in beating runner-up Rutherford by about 24 seconds in the Michigan championship race.

McCluskey followed his first championship victory of the season by chasing Foyt home later in the day in the stock car race. He made up almost a lap on the legendary Texan, closing his Plymouth within about six seconds at the end.

Bob DeMarco Battles For Better Contract

HIRAM, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Browns holdout Bob DeMarco says he won't report to training camp until his contract dispute is settled—despite a possible $200-a-day fine.

But DeMarco insisted that his holdout is "no big thing" and said "I expect to be playing this year."

FOPA Win Stands

After a meeting of Circleville Youth Baseball League officials, the protest filed in the game between FOPA vs Hummel and Plum, July 11, was disallowed.

The final score of FOPA, 11, and Hummel and Plum, 10, will stand.

with my fastball. If I pitch to him again, he'll never see it—the change-up—again."

Mays' homer was Grimsley's only major mistake of the day. The 23-year-old Reds' lefthander retired the first 13 Mets in order before Jim Beauchamp beat out an infield hit to shortstop in the fifth inning.

"That call upset me. I didn't think it was a hit. I lost some of my concentration after that," said Grimsley.

The victory was Grimsley's ninth against five losses for the Memphis, Tenn. native who seems on the verge of becoming one of the top lefties in the National League.

It was the third time this season he went the route without walking anyone and the effort lowered his earned run average to 2.61—best on the club.

"I doubt if I'll ever throw a no-hitter.

My game is to make 'em hit the ball to someone. I put the ball where I wanted it all day," he said.

A 14-game winner last year despite missing the first month and a half of the season, Grimsley is convinced it's just a matter of time before his luck turns.

"I'm 9-5-7 this year. That's seven ties. And in six of them, I allowed only two runs in seven innings. I could have 13 or 14 wins right now with some breaks.

"Right now I'd have to say 20 victories looks slim, but that's my goal," said Grimsley, who was the Reds' No. 1 draft choice in 1969.

The Reds broke up the pitching duel with two runs off Jon Matlack, 7-11, in the fourth. Johnny Bench drove in his 70th run—tops in the league—with a single and Bobby Tolan's sacrifice fly scored another.

Larry Stahl offset Mays' homer by singling in Dave Concepcion in the eighth.

A controversy arose in the sixth inning and ended with Sparky Anderson notifying the umpires the game was being played under protest.

Anderson said Mets' catcher Jerry Grote interfered with Joe Morgan in a rundown at third base.

"Umpire Bruce Froemming said that in his opinion Grote did not obstruct Morgan. But we have films that show he did. And that's interference. But the protest is off now, with the win," Anderson said.

The victory gave the Reds a 12-4 record for July and was the sixth in eight games with the Mets.

Philadelphia moves into Cincinnati Monday. The Mets move to Atlanta.

Don Nordhorn Moves Up In Race Standings

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Don Nord horn of Wadsworth, Ind., moved up from fourth to second place in the USAC sprint car point standings by way of his runnerup finish in the 40-lap feature at Toledo Raceway Saturday night.

Nordhorn locked into a second place tie with Lee Kunzman of Guttenberg, Iowa, with 444 points apiece.

Rollie Beale of Toledo, who finished third here, maintained a distant lead in the standings with 540 points. Sam Sessions of Nashville, Mich., last year's points champion, was fourth with 441, and Bruce Walkup of St. Paul, Ind., fifth with 386.

Rookie Tom Sveva of Spokane, Wash., won the feature.

"A funny thing happened when I decided to expose that phony floating Volkswagen commercial."

The ex-skeptic leaning out of the Volkswagen window is a television reporter named Stanley Siegel. Like a lot of other people he saw our floating car commercial. Unlike a lot of other people, he tested it. He didn't really believe that our car is made so well, it's practically airtight.

So he borrowed a Volkswagen from a local dealer; went out with a camera crew; and hoped to come back with pictures of it lying on the bottom of something called, believe it or not, Beetle Creek.

Fortunately, as you can see in the re-enactment above, that's not how things worked out.

What people watching station WLUC in Green Bay, Wis. saw on the news that night wasn't a sunken Volkswagen. It was a surprised Stanley Siegel.

In fact, as he put it himself, "These things really do float." What's more the VW even started up. Without any trouble. On the first try.

So as far as we're concerned, while Stanley Siegel may not have come back with the expose he went out for, he still produced something very worthwhile.

One of the best Volkswagen commercials we've seen in a long time.

Few things in life work as well as a Volkswagen
*It definitely floats, but not indefinitely.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day to make long-range plans that include both established and modern, streamlined things. Some changes in the persons about you are necessary if you are to have the fullest possible benefits from oncoming planetary influences.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to April 19) Get together with persons who are experienced in your line of endeavor, both modern and old-fashioned. Have conversations that are interesting, fun, or can bring you more success in the future. Think.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get in touch with higher-ups who are conservative or otherwise, and join forces for more knowledge or other purposes. Accept whatever invitations come your way. Do nothing of a rash nature.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan now for any future trips in mind. Make as many new acquaintances as you can, especially among those who are different from yourself.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Your intuition is good; you can now see what should be done to gain the favor of others. You can have a closer relationship with mate, so be sure to talk things over. Use tact, kindness.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to what an associate has to suggest with regard to adding another ally to your organization who can be most helpful. Do that civic work that can add to present prestige. Avoid one who gossips.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have much work to do and you must use both old and new systems if you are to get it done efficiently. Talk over with co-workers your joint aims and reach right decisions.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have creative ideas that should be put in operation now during free time, but be sure to take careful risks only. Getting out to relaxing entertainments is fine since you need relief from tensions.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Study your home and see what should be done there to make it more functional, harmonious, attractive. Get much done. Show appreciation for kin, and entertain at home in evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Expanding routines so you get more important results in the future is wise. Ideal day to shop around and make appointments that are fascinating, get you real results. Attend a movie or play tonight.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Study your property and other assets wisely and see how you can improve or add to them. Make sure you contact the right key persons. Buy the gadgets that make your work more efficient.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Getting together with good pals and new acquaintances and making new allies can lead to fine results. The social life is best now. Don't forget to handle that important business matter early.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have ambitions that need work on them now so you can realize them in the future. Put that new plan to work that can be effective. Listen to what partners have to suggest and follow the best, wisest ideas.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those delightful young people who can be most successful in whatever is of a civic nature or in personnel work, and it would be well to slant the education along such lines. The mind here is very fine and a good college education should be provided, and the creativity in this chart brought out to the highest degree. Sports are excellent, even along professional lines. Give fine ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — thinking about a sequel and even a series. Sooner or later every actor feels his selection of roles is being limited and yearns for a new image.

What happens is that at a casting session the name of an actor comes up and someone says, "Naw, he can't do drama. He's a comedy actor."

Bill Bixby figured that was happening to him. When his name would come up, all anyone could remember were his comedy roles in "My Favorite Martian" and "The Courtship of Eddie's Father."

But how about Bill Bixby, the star of "Steambath"? He performed admirably for "The Hollywood Television Theater" in that scorching drama about the dead.

"I didn't do 'Steambath' to shape up my image as 'Eddie's Father,' but to remind people I'm an actor," said Bixby.

"It was a mature work responsibly approached and it attracted your not-so-average television viewer. Afterward a man came up to me on the street and said, 'Congratulations. I'd like to see more 'Steambaths' on television.' That's more than I'm used to. Usually, it's, 'Hey, you, sign this.'"

After "Steambath" he went into a movie comedy for the upcoming season. It's "Shirts and Skins," a bizarre, rough-and-tumble story about six businessmen who play basketball together. Then one side hides a basketball and the other side has to find it. That doesn't sound like much, but the ABC Movie of the Week is causing so much talk about town that ABC is ranges.

Within seven years, 100,000 persons — three times the present residential population — will live downtown in attractive new housing of diverse rental ranges.

Air Crash Fatal To 2 Newark Men

ZANESVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Officials here today continued their investigation into the cause of a plane crash that claimed the lives of two Newark men Sunday.

The Ohio Highway Patrol identified the victims as Thomas Jones, the pilot, and Earl Lewis, a passenger.

The single-engine plane crashed short of the runway at Zanesville Municipal Airport in early morning fog.

Federal Aviation Administration officials said Jones asked clearance to land the Piper Cherokee at the airport before dawn. They said he missed the runway on the first try, after being given approval to land.

The plane crashed about 900 feet short of the runway on the second try, according to the officials. They said the plane disintegrated when it hit a tree and flipped over onto the ground. Airport officials said the plane had been rented to the men by the Sundin Aviation Co. of Newark.

A spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board in Chicago, which is investigating the incident, said it would probably be several weeks before the cause of the crash is determined.

Pair Freed By Kidnapers In Italy

ROME (AP) — Kidnapers have released a 63-year-old surgeon and his daughter in central Italy. But there still was no word of J. Paul Getty III, the 16-year-old grandson of the American oil billionaire.

Italo Rossini and his 25-year-old daughter Rossella were found unharmed Sunday on a lonely road near Arezzo, 40 miles from their home in the hilltop republic of San Marino. They had been kidnaped there on June 28.

The Rossinis' kidnapers reportedly had demanded $500,000 ransom, but it was not known how much was paid.

Young Getty was last seen in Rome last Monday night. His mother said an unidentified man telephoned her Wednesday that the youth had been kidnaped and she would get ransom instructions. But she said there had been no further word.

Mrs. Getty at first said she thought the call was a hoax. But on Sunday she said she was beginning to fear that her son had been kidnaped.

The youth frequented Rome's hippie circles, sold cheap handmade jewelry and often was without money, some of his hippie friends told police. One girl said he once considered faking a kidnaping to get money out of his family, but his mother said she didn't think that had happened now.

New Rules Planned To Curb Drug Raiders

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government has drafted new restrictions designed to end the mistaken no-knock raids still haunting some innocent families.

John R. Bartels Jr., acting head of the Drug Enforcement Administration, was prepared today to announce new rules limiting the use of no-knock searches but stopping short of abandoning the procedure.

Bartels was responding to mounting complaints that federal agents have terrorized innocent citizens by bursting into their homes in futile searches for drugs.

Two Collinsville, Ill., raids have become the most celebrated cases of several that have become known. Sources in the Senate and in civil liberties organizations say many others may have occurred but have remained obscure because the victims have chosen not to speak out.

In the reported cases, the agents have been accused of failing to identify themselves as police officers until long terrifying moments after the break-in.

Since his temporary appointment July 1, Bartels has warned that he will not tolerate such mistakes. Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson says Bartels' stern approach "meets with my wholehearted approval."

A federal grand jury is investigating possible civil rights violations in the Collinsville raids and others in the area.

Bartels last Thursday promised

"rapid and severe disciplinary action" against any agent who violates agency standards or acts "in any way in an unprofessional manner."

He was serving as second-ranking official at one of those agencies when his boss, Myles J. Ambrose, suspended the agents involved in the Collinsville raids on a limited basis with pay. Bartels last Wednesday suspended seven of them for 30 days without pay pending a review of further disciplinary action.

On the night of April 23, a narcotics task force fanned out through Collinsville in raids on several suspected cocaine dealers. They broke into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Giglotto, who has claimed in a $1-

Storms Hit Wide Areas In South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fair skies prevailed over most of the nation today, but a few thunderstorms roamed from southern Texas to the lower Mississippi Valley.

A flash flood warning was issued today for areas west of Austin, Tex., and west and north of San Antonio, as heavy rains in the past few days have swollen streams.

A few thunderstorms lingered along the Virginia and Carolina coasts and over the southern Rockies and the central and southern Plateau regions.

Fog developed along the Pacific Coast and invaded areas from the eastern Ohio Valley and southern Appalachians to the middle Atlantic seaboard and southern New England.

Visibility in parts of West Virginia, Kentucky and New York was near zero before daybreak.

Temperatures over the northern Great Lakes slipped into the 40s while holding in the 60s and 70s most other places.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 43 at Bradford, Pa., to 95 at Needles, Calif.

14 Persons Die On OhioHighways

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Fourteen persons, including four killed in a single accident last night, died in Ohio traffic over the Friday the 13th weekend.

The accident in which four died involved two cars near the Lawrence-Jackson County line on Ohio 93.

The other nine persons killed died in separate accidents. The toll included one pedestrian and one motorcyclist. The weekend count began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday.

The dead:

JACKSON — George Ward, about 50, of Ironton; Larry J. Willis, 24, of South Point; Loren Junior Bledsoe, age unknown, of Raceland, Ky., and Chester Ravencraft, 59, of Ironton, in a two-car crash on Ohio 93, one mile south of the Jackson County line in Lawrence County.

MARION — Michael Lee Russell, 15, of Route 1, Pedro, in a two-car crash on U.S. 23 at the intersection of a county road in Marion County.

LIMA — William R. Strider, 71, of Anna, in a two-car accident on Interstate 75 in Allen County.

SANDUSKY — Raymond A.

Schaffer, 25, of Milan in a two-car crash on U.S. 250 at the intersection of Ohio 113 in Erie County.

LORAIN — John Zipp, age unknown, of Amherst, when he lost control of his car and hit a pole in Lorain.

SATURDAY

ELYRIA — Robert R. Durrell, 21, of North Royalton, in a one-car crash on Ohio 252 less than a mile north of Ohio 82 in Lorain County.

ZANESVILLE — Wanda Mae Stone, 19, of Zanesville, in a two-car crash on U.S. 22 in Muskingum County.

FREMONT — Edward H. Jones Jr., 67, of Tiffin, when he stepped in front of a car on a county road in Sandusky County near Fremont.

MANSFIELD — Carl W. Blankenship, age unknown, of Mansfield in a one-car accident on U.S. 30 in the city.

FRIDAY NIGHT

CINCINNATI — Climoth C. Wade, 31, of Elizabethtown, when the motorcycle he was riding was involved in an accident in the Hamilton County village of Cleves.

LANCASTER — Lewis Mathias, 40, of Lancaster, in a two-car accident on Ohio 188 in Fairfield County.

9 Housewives Join Fire Department, Hike Effort

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Nine housewives have joined a county volunteer fire department and make up Northern California's first all-female fire crew.

Using a new 15-ton tanker fire engine and an antiquated 1946 pumper, the female fire fighters serve the Dry Creek-Loloya Fire Protection District around Mt. Veeder. The area is eight miles west of here.

U.S. Dollar Opens Weak

LONDON (AP) — The U.S. dollar opened weak in Frankfurt and Zurich today, and there was virtually no demand.

The price of gold also eased to $119.75 an ounce in London from Friday's $121 and to $119.25 in Zurich from $120.75 on Friday.

The dollar opened at 2.3750 marks in Frankfurt, down half a pfennig from Friday, and then eased further to 2.3720 marks. In Zurich, there was a similar pattern with the dollar opening at 2.8487 Swiss francs, nearly two centimes below Friday's close, and then sliding to 2.8475 francs.

The dollar showed some strength in Paris and London, however. It opened in Paris at 4.0875 francs, down from 4.10, then soon moved up to 4.0950 francs.

In London, the pound opened at $2.5425, up a fraction from $2.54285 at the close Friday.

Goodbye is a corruption of "God be with you."

IF
If beef costs had risen as much as medical costs, steers would be selling for $72 per hundred pounds on the wholesale market — not $45 per hundred pounds, as they are.
If you lived in Japan, the best cuts of beef would cost you $17 lb. In Bonn, Germany, $2.08 lb. for a beef roast. In Paris $2.57 lb. for top rounds of beef and $3.20 lb. for veal escalope.
If you lived in Stockholm you'd pay $1 lb. for broilers. In Tokyo, $1.67 lb. In Rome, 71 lb.
If egg prices had climbed at the same rate as first class postage in the past 20 years, you'd be paying $1.61 a dozen for them.
If the average price of beef had risen proportionately, in the past 22 years, as the average rate for hotel-motel rooms, you'd be paying $2.49 avg. for a pound of beef — not $1.30 lb.
If the price of bread had increased the same as skilled construction labor, bread would cost $0.40 a loaf.
Aren't you glad these IFs didn't happen? It does show that food is still a bargain in the U.S.A.
